

FINISHING TOUCH

The cabinets are installed. The flooring gleams. And the walls are painted with the precision of Mondrian.

And yet...the story isn't quite done. Like the framework of the house, those installations are the basics of what makes a room come to life, transforming beautiful into exceptional.

When the tradesmen put down their tools, interior designers pick up theirs. At K2, we call it "dirt to drapes" – a full design service that starts with breaking ground and ends with a move-in ready living space.

Everything from lamps and carpets to art work are carefully chosen for what we call "punch lists" of the fine tuning, cleaning, adjusting and touching up details that create the right ambiance and welcome.

Once those elements are installed, we'll even send in our most persnickety employee to check the list and check it again to ensure even the tiniest details are dealt with.

Why? We want our fearless vision to resonate with our clients. And we want them to call us again, for their next exciting project. ■
